290 West Street, New York City, NY

This luxury condominium on the corner of Canal Street and the West Side Highway in Tribeca, was designed by Morris Adjmi and Aldo Andreoli. It is built in grand proportions, emphasized by soaring 11' high ceilings and massive floor-to-ceiling west-facing windows that flood the space with light and dramatic vistas of the Hudson River and Park.

A 2015 ground-up project, the building consists of 45,000 square feet on 11 floors, made up of 13 luxury apartments. With multiple duplex configurations, several units take advantage of outdoor terrace space due to setbacks and roof deck area.
